The art of pursuing a meaningful professional career

Workshop for students and young professionals

Work: you do it for most part of your day and for most part of your life. Due to the exponential development of technology, it is almost impossible to plan your professional career in the long-term: maybe your job stops to exist in some years, maybe a robot will take it over, maybe... Everything is changing so fast.

Furthermore, most of us are not satisfied with just having a job that provides us enough money to live. We want to have impact on society. We want to make a difference. We want to discover and use our talents in an authentic way.

In this workshop, Ruben Zelissen will help us reflect upon our career on a deeper level: when is it good to stay at my job or to switch careers? How do I find meaning in my job? How can I discover my talents and develop them?

Ruben Zelissen has a very broad professional experience as consultant, entrepreneur, lecturer and manager, with a focus on the fields of health care and human resources. Ruben has developed several initiatives to help young people discover their talents and their mission in society. Last but not least, Ruben is married to Paula and together they have a son.
